Introduction

The City of Gosnells is located on the banks of the Canning River (Djarlgarra Beeliar) and is Whadjuk Noongar boodja (country). The Whadjuk Noongar people inhabited and used this land for many thousands of years prior to European colonisation. There are known sites of Aboriginal cultural heritage significance within the City of Gosnells including the Canning and Southern Rivers.

In November 1829, only two months after the first Swan River Colony land grants, land was allocated to colonists in the area which became known as 'The Canning'. Many homes and farms were established on this land, all of which included frontage to the Canning River. These properties included 'Maddington Park' and 'Thornlie', both later subdivided to become the suburbs of Maddington and Thornlie, and 'Chenies', which was purchased in 1862 by Charles Gosnell, a wealthy cosmetic company owner from London.

By the early 1900s, demand in the area was strong and a consortium of developers purchased the land owned by Gosnell, subdividing and marketing it as the Gosnell Estate. In 1907, when a new municipality was established, it was called Gosnells.

The City of Gosnells is committed to protecting and conserving its cultural heritage and engaging the community in the history and heritage of the area.

Strategic Context

The City's heritage priorities are described in the City's Strategic Community Plan 2023-2033 which was developed through community consultation and internal review.

It sets out the long-term vision for the City's future and contains a set of priorities and goals to achieve the strategic vision: 'Making the City of Gosnells a great place'.

The Heritage Strategy has been designed to provide direction for the management of the City's heritage and is aligned to the City's Strategic Community Plan, particularly in relation to:

STRATEGIC PRIORITY 3 – COMMUNITY THE COMMUNITY IS PROUD AND HARMONIOUS

Goal	Outcome
Identify and celebrate our social heritage and contemporary culture.	There is increased knowledge and appreciation of the City's social history and contemporary culture.

STRATEGIC PRIORITY 4 – PLACES PLACES WITHIN THE CITY ARE ATTRACTIVE AND VIBRANT

In the broader context, management of the City's heritage is guided by:

Heritage Act 2018

The Heritage Act 2018 provides for the recognition and conservation of places of cultural heritage significance to the State and for the identification of places of local heritage significance.

State Planning Policy (SPP) 3.5 – Historic Heritage Conservation

SPP 3.5 is a State Government policy which sets out the principles of sound and responsible planning for the conservation and protection of Western Australia's cultural heritage.

The Burra Charter: the Australia ICOMOS Charter for Places of Cultural Significance, 2013

The Burra Charter is recognised in Australia as the best practice standard for managing places of cultural heritage significance.

Planning and Development Act 2005

Schedule 2 of the Planning and Development Act 2005 specifies the heritage related provisions to be included in local government local planning schemes. These provisions specify how the local government is to identify places and areas of heritage value so that development in that local government area is consistent with the conservation of heritage values.

Aboriginal Heritage Act 1972

The Aboriginal Heritage Act 1972 protects and manages Aboriginal heritage by requiring approval for activities that may impact or cause harm to Aboriginal cultural sites and objects of significance.

State Register of Heritage Places

The State Register is a statutory list of places that represent the story of Western Australia's history and development. Places include buildings, structures, gardens, cemeteries, memorials, landscapes and archaeological sites. Inclusion on the Register is the highest recognition of heritage at the State level. Places are recognised for their value and importance to the State.

Local Heritage Survey

Local governments are required by the Heritage Act 2018 to prepare a local heritage survey which identifies and records places that are, or might become, of cultural heritage significance within the local government area.
